

Self Study

Minute for Mission

October 2, 2011

Where do you find God? How can we best minister to our congregation? Where do you see God in our community? These are just three examples of questions that have been asked and discussed in our holy conversation groups as part of the self study process. The holy conversations have been thought provoking and have allowed us share ideas and concerns as we try to discern where God is leading us.

The Self Study Committee hopes to compile its findings and present its report by the year's end. We have heard from many in the congregation but would like to hear from as many as possible. Everyone's voice is important and valued.

The questions that the Self Study Committee compiled to facilitate the holy conversations will be appearing in the Messenger as well as the bulletin. If you have not been heard from yet, or if you have more to say, please contact anyone on the committee. The Self Study committee is composed of Barbara and Paul Fennema, Joan Ferrier, Lynn Zocolo, Lauren Arnold, and Denise Weingart. If you feel more comfortable jotting down your ideas, please do so and submit them to the church office or place them in our mailboxes. We look forward to hearing from you!
